banese Army commander, Gen. Iskandar Chanim, issued to of regulations limiting the activities of the guerrillas in of last weekend's brief invasion of southern Lebanon by The Voice ops and tanks, it was reliably reported today. The Voice of Palestine radio station, broadcasting from the Syrian capital of Damascus, said the guerrillas would not accept the new regula-tions and accused Lebanon of plotting to liquidate the Palestinian resistance movement.

The guerrilla radio said that Lebanese Army units were erecting barricades to keep Palestinian forces from returning to their positions in the south and that the Lebanese Army, backed by heavy artillery, had moved into the area at dawn.

Mr. Salam met with guerrilla leader Yassir Arafat last night. The two men, who toured the devastated area separately today, are scheduled to meet again shortly to attempt to reach a compromise between the commandos and the army, which apparently has lost patience with the guerrillas' refusal to live up to an agreement freezing raids on Israel from Lebanese territory. Such raids have triggered re-peated Israeli incursions into Lebanon, Saturday's land and air assault followed a border clash, in which two Israeli soldiers were killed, and the murder by Arab guerrillas of 11 Israeli athletes in Munich.

Meanwhile, Syrian newspapers predicted that Israel would shortly lannch a large scale attack on Syrig affer having withdrawn yesterday from Lebanese territory. WAFA, the Palestinian news agency, reported from Damascus tonight that Israeli troops were massing on the frontier.

Palestinian commandos fired 50 rockets into the Israeli-occupied Golan Heights of Syria last night. WAFA reported earlier. Israel said that the rockets caused no damage, but riposted with an artillery barrage. The action took place after the sundown opening of Yom Kippur, the Day of Atone-(Continued nn Page 2, Col. 1)

At a luncheon honoring Mr. Zayyat and attended hy envoys of Libya, Lebanon and Saudi Arabia, Sir Alec also said the complete withdrawal of Soviet military personnel from Egypt provides a new chance to look at the possibilities of a peace settlement.

Sir Alec said that he favored dialogue between Egypt and Israel and that Egypt has made it clear any such dialogue should be through an intermediary. Ideally, he went on, the inter-mediary should be the UN special envoy, Gunnar V. Jarring. Another Agency

The foreign secretary then added: "If not, it should then be through some other acceptable person or agency. Efficient and quick and husinesslike communication is essential if the processes of peace are to start and maintain momentum."

If new talks through Mr. Jarring cannot be organized, he said, he would not rule out the alternative of a peace conference.

"The difficulties confronting a conference even before it actually began would be plenty," he said. But, if Britain could help in any way and if both sides were agreeable, we should be ready to do whatever we could."

Earlier, Mr. Zayyat departed from his prepared text to tell the hincheon party: "I share your condemnation of terrorism and of terrorism by states."

First Statement Political observers said his remark, although coupled with a swipe at Israel, was apparently the first statement by an Egyptian leader critical of terrorist acts since the Munich massacre. He said Egypt is counting on British support in the search for a fair and just peace settlement and he claimed that the Egyptians have never turned for protection to any power bloc.

Mr. Zayyats visit to London is part of a swing through West European capitals during which he hopes to encourage the West Europeans to provide more active backing for the Arab cause and for Egypt's policies.

civil servant who heads the complex and politically touchy resettlement program, spoke to one young Indian man who walked by with two children.

Welcome, I am sorry that you had to arrive on the worst day we have had so far," he said. The Indian smiled, thanked him and walked on. Sir Charles looked after him and added, "It's dreadful for them to arrive from a warm climate into this weather."

Inside the terminal the refugees were served tea and were screened by doctors and immigra-tion officials. Piles of warm clothing and a fund of emergency cash were available. But the refugees, members of Uganda's tradesman and skilled-worker class, had provided fairly well for themselves and hardly touched the clothes or the money.

After this they were given preliminary interviews for housing and job placement. Officials advised them not to choose Bir-mingham, Leicester, Bradford and a number of other areas, including parts of London, where there has already been considerable Asian immigration.

The refugees told of heing stopped and insulted by Ugandan troops on their way to the airport, and of having jewelry, radios and watches confiscated. Seni Patel-who ran a primary school for Africans in Kampala and hopes to find a factory job in Loughborough, a Midlands town where his wife and children are already living-said the bus he was in was stopped 11 times on the 23-mile trip from Kampala Entebbe airport.

With 174 more refugees scheduled to arrive tomorrow and the same number on Wednesday, the airlift has not yet reached the rate—some 600 passengers daily it will have to achieve to meet Gen. Amin's deadline.

U.S. Deploys Big Gunships Over Saigon Before Election

SAIGON, Sept. 18 (AP).-For the first time in the Indochina war, the United States is employing its biggest computerized gunships, equipped with television cameras, to protect Saigon against enemy attacks anticipated in the weeks preceeding the U.S. presidential election, U.S. military sources disclosed tonight. Air Force AC-130 gunships, armed with low-light television cameras, have been circling over Salgon for three weeks, the informants said. The four-engine gunships.

armed with 40-mm and 20-mm cannon, are supported by ground television stations in the Saigon military region. When enemy movement is detected, the gunships are targeted and fire by automation.

The sources said the gunships stready have been effective against small groups of Viet Cong trying to infiltrate the capital. One source said the gunships had been called in from bases in Thailand to patrol the Salgon corridor and added that U.S. officials were expecting the enemy to fire rockets into Saigon and carry out sapper attacks in the capital to "grab beadlines."

The use of the giant gunships underscores the seriousness with which U.S. officials take the threat to Saigon, and their determination to preclude attacks that could embarrass President Nixon in his bid for re-election in November.

330 Strikes in North Senior U.S. Air Force officials also indicated that if Mr. Nixon

Mr. Arafat reportedly agreed that his el-Fatah group would police the arrangement. Thursday night's raid that resulted in the two Israell tatalities was carried out by members of the General Command group, which had sald that it did not recognize the restrictions imposed in June.

3 Arab States Of Riposte

Egypt, Syria. Libya Vow Mutual Defense

From Wire Dispatches

CAIRO, Sept. 18.-The Federation of Arah Republics, which links Egypt, Syria and Libya, today warned Israel that any attack on a member state would be considered an attack on the federation and would be repelled. The warning, issued by the federation's Ministerial Council following a meeting here, was the most forceful Arah response yet to Israel'a large-scale weekend attacks on southern Lebanon. The council's announcement was clearly aimed at preventing similar attacks against Syria, following reports from Damascus that Israeli troops and armor were huilding up in the occupied Golan Heights and that an Israeli attack was imminent.

The council also expressed concern at relations between the Lebanese authorities and the Palestine commandos in Lebanon. The Lebanese Army is reported to have issued an ultimatum to the commandos hanning them from using their bases in southern Lebanon, although Lehanese officials have denied that any such ultimatum has been issued. A Reminder

The federation announcement sald: "While asluting its stead-fastness and sacrifices, we would like to remind Lehanon that it has previously surmounted all enemy attempts to sow dissension hetween it and the Palestinian resistance." It sald the Palestinian revolu-

"Neither a united Europe nor Japan comes into the top class of super powers," said Mr. Heath at a dinner given hy Mr. Tanaka for the first British prime minister to set foot in Japan.

"But in these two areas, international trade and monetary matters, we shall both have immense influence. If we choose to exercise it, and exercise it in close collaboration, we can do much to maintain world peace and prosperity." On the third day of his four-day visit to Japan, Mr. Heath met with Mr. Tanaka for two and a half hours and with For-eign Minister Masayoshi Ohira for one and a half hours to discuss foreign affairs, including bllateral trade, a sore point ln British-Japanese relations. Mr. Heath compared Jepan's new approaches to China and the Soviet Union to Britain's own "exciting future" as a member of the Common Market.

However, the prime minister also produed the Japanese to shoulder a greater burden in aid to the underdeveloped countries and in particular to Bangladesh, the recipient of $75 million in British assistance. Terrorism Control

In his talks with Mr. Tanaka, Mr. Heath said, the two agreed that governments must "act soon and effectively to control the activities of terrorists, saboteurs, kidnappers and hijackers." He returned to the same sub-

Gen. Amin have pointed an accusing finger at many-at the British, the Israelis, the Tanzanians. This is a condensed list of those countries the general has outraged in one way or another: the Tanzanians insist that the incursion over their borders into Uganda is composed of the Ugandans themselves. who also have a rather large bone to pick with the semi-literate soldier who has set himself up as ruler over them. In any case. revolution, of one kind or another, is being imported into Uganda and it must be admitted that the market there seems good.

The case of Uganda is one of these sltuations in which the temptation, perhaps even the justification, for some form of outside intervention is very strong, Gen. Amin is no credit either to the uniform he wears or the country he presides over: the one thing that most military dictatorships pride themselves upon-order-ls lacking in Uganda. and its relationships with outside states seems governed by whim.

It is had enough, as Greece can testify, to be commanded by colonels, but the example of Cuba under Batista comes to mino it is worse to be ruled by corporals and sergeants. This is apparently the case in Uganda today, If, indeed, even a noncom's stripes are necessary there for the exercise of sovereign power over life and death, property and the remains of law.

Such anarchy is a greater invitation to reprisal and counter-terror than the harboring of terrorists, for which Israel has exacted such grim tolls from Lebanon, But in Uganda, too, the intended solution—guerrilla attacks

Uganda would be a very hard case indeed on which to base a precedent.

The real answer to such problems as Uganda coviously lies in the ideal of the United Nations Charter-in the belief that absolute nationalism poses a threat to the global community, not only when it afflicts its neighbors but when it fails to provide a reasonably adequate and humane government for its own people. But since the UN is in fact composed of nations claiming absolute sovereignty, supporting conflicting ldeologies and making conflicting claims to territories, those nations are not likely to offer or accept any genuine rule of law in the world.

What alone can be done is to nibble at the edges of this major task confronting a compressed world, to try to set up some regulations that can be enforced, to endeavor to repress, to whatever extent is practicable, the use of violence, while at the same time tackling the causes from which violence emerges. Perhaps, as in the dawn of most societies, order will have to precede law; perhaps some injustices will have to be tolerated to induce a cilmate in which justice can be done. But Solzhenitsyn was not talking only of the violence of antisocial fanatics. He has himself been a victim of something just as dangerous: the violence of the state. It is indeed more sinister, because more corrupting.

One of the most terrible facts of this age is the evidence that we are becoming more tolerant of official violence. There are signs of that deadly social illness right ecross the developed world. A current example, an especially painful one, is provided by the report of the official commission on the Attica prison rebellion and its suppression a year ago. The report makes clear beyood argument that law enforcement officers fired hundreds of rounds without warning that day, at men who had no guns. It makes clear the heavy responsibility of Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller in the mas-

In a society that gave due value to personal courage and honor in its leaders, Rockefeller would have returned to private life: those who wantooly caused death in the name of the state would be called to legal account-What is happening in fact? in Israel's reprisals for the saragery of Arab terrorists at Munich. The declared aim was to hit guerrilla camps. Accounts by reporters after the first air raids indicated that Isrcell intelligence cannot be perfect either: The bombs hit at least some places where there were no guerrillas, and they killed women and children. The sweep into Lebanon by Israell ground forces may inevitably have claimed civilian victims, too,

No one should mistake determination of Jews in Israel not to let themselves be destroyed in this generation. But can it really help to take action that almost inevitably will kill the innocent along with the guilty? Solzhenitsyn, after all, asks us to meet riolence not with violence but with justice. The correspondents there keep telling us about the violence being done by the United States in the name of freedom—as a recent example the saturation B-52 bombing of densely populated areas in the southern delta. But is anyone listening? How many Americans can make the mental leap of falling from unseen planes on villages in Kansas or Rhode Island? How many reckon the moral cost that will have to be paid for that violence? And how can those who do understand go on caring, efter all the years of fruitless protest?

Bernard Levin From London:

... The only surpris thing about the sen (nine months for a cent theft) in this c was that it did not include a life senter and a flogging.

LONDON.-The ancient end the recent dock beautiful carhedral city of Lincoln, is, as I write, without a bus service, because ell the bus drivers and conductors are on strike. The reason for the strike is fairly easily explained: The implications of it, however, have not yet begun to be understood. When they are, they will, or at any rate should, cause widespread concern.

A Mr. Bowler, a bus conductor in Lincoln, was charged by the police with defrauding the bus company. Appearing before the Magistrates Court he exercised his right to go for trial to a higher court. (A defendant has more opportunity in the higher court for deploying his defense fully; but the higher court can impose pensitles very much higher than the lower one is empowered to do.) At his trial, the prosecution evidence was that he had given two passengers used tickets instead of new ones and kept the money they had tender-ed for their fares. His defense was, in effect, that he had been framed; that he had given the passengers new tickets and that they (for reasons unspecified) (for reasons unspecified) made a false complaint against him. He was found guilty, the judge commenting harshly on his attempt to throw the blame onto others, and sentenced to nine months' imprisonment. He was a man of treviously unbigmished character, and the total sum involved was sixpence (approximately 15 cents). On hearing the sentence, Mr. Bowler's mother, present in court, burst into tears, and his brother fainted. The local Member of Parliament called the sentence "appailing." Rather more prac-tically, Mr. Bowler's fellow-busmen came out on strike to a man, and when last heard from were declaring that they would stay. out until Mr. Bowler was released. which suggests that if the sentence is not quashed on appeal the people of Lincoln (a billy clty) are going to be doing a good deal of walking for some Now for the implications, and the implications I have in mind have nothing to do with the sentence will st:

Uniting the Democrats

By Joseph Kraft

NEW YORK.-For a few goodreasons - and a lot of bad ones-Democratic leaders of all kinds showed up to support George McGovern as he toured the party's strongholds with Sen. Edward Kennedy last week. Their coming together by itself indisputably settled one contentious point. Whatever else George Mc-Govern may be, a Democratic Goldwater he is not.

The hallmark of the Goldwater campaign in 1964 was a massive and highly visible desertion by the best-known Republican leaders. Gov. Nelson Rockefeller of New York, Sen. Clifford Case of New Jersey and Sen. Hugh Scott of Pennsylvania all proclaimed it an act of conscience not to support the presidential nominee. McGovern last week went to the quarter of the Democratic party that likes him least. Before a brief stopover here in New York, he toured the white working-class cities Chicago, Detroit, Cleveland, Pittsburgh, Philadelphia and Albany.

There is still no love for Mc-Govern in these cities, and not even a lot of respect. The crowds I saw were mainly composed of enthusiastic students.

At one rally where Sen. Kennedy was clearly more popular than Sen. McGovern. I remarked to a Democratic official that it was unusual for a presidential candidate to allow himself . to play second-fiddle. "Not." the official shot back, "when it's a question of whether he can get to play in the hand at all."

But if love was not lost, hatchets were buried. In city after city, the warring factions which had torn the Democratic party apart called a truce to support the national ticket.

In Chicago, Mayor Richard Daley and the Cook County organization joined reformers under the gubernstorial candidate, Dan Walker, to back the presidential candidate. In Detroit, the politicians and the labor leadership patched up their feud. In Cleveland, the bitter struggle among blacks, ethnics and white reformers was effaced in a re- the uncertainty a markable set of introductions. A white ethnic who had refused prisingly strong a to vote for a hlack Democrat as primaries. No of mayor, Denis Cucinich, introduced the head of the black organization. That man Rep Louis Stokes, in turn introduced the white reformer whom he had not supported in the last subernatorial election. The white reformer, Gov. John Gilligan, presented Sen, Kennedy, who did the honors' for McGovern. Whether the local political chiefs can bring their Indians to vote for George McGovern is, of course, another question. But in every town, the organization leaders have reasons—strange, hizarre reasons sometimes—for trying.

One reason is the sheer complexity of the internal infighting. In Illinois, for example, the Democratic ballot includes the reform candidate for governor, an organization man for senator and an organization man who has been at odds with Mayor Daley going for the crucial job of state's attorney in Cook County. Given that ballot, Bobby Fischer, on his sharpest day, wouldn't be clever enough to figure out a pattern of selective voting that would help the organization and hurt its enemies. The mix is so complicated that the only sensible course for Mayor Dalsy is to have

Now that American political power has largely been withdrawn from Saigon along with American manpower, Gen. Thieu no longer finds it necessary to sport his uncomfortable disguise. Elected by an unopposed "referendum" such as usually marks the installation of dictators, he has now turned openly against "disorderly democracy." He has removed previous attempts at camouflage from policies which are making his regime hegin to resemble the totalitarianism of the North.

The Thleu junta rules by decree. It has aholished self-government in the provinces and hamlets. It has substituted political jailings and executions for the judicial process. It has reduced the legislature to a rubber stamp. It has imposed on the press

Under these conditions, there can no longer be justification for an American policy that continues the bloodletting in the name of protecting democratic self-government in South Vietnam. There has never been a more opportune moment for the United States to negotiate a settlement in which this country no longer allows itself to be used as the patron of one dictatorship against another. #### French Ex-Aide Will Turn in Scandal Files

By lames Goldsborough PARIS, Sept. 18 (IHT) .- The latest of the Gaullist scandals became a little less mysterious today when Gabriel Aranda, the former public works official now threatening to incriminate public personalities, promised to turn his locuments over to French justice. Yesterday afternoon as he was leaving the Palais de Justice where he was charged, technically arrested and released in his own custody, Mr. Aranda said that he would turn over the documents in question at his next audience with the investigating magistrate on Thursday.

Before the hearing, however, he made public another of the 138 official documents he has had photocopied. In it, he accuses Gérard Sibeud, Gaullist deputy from the Drôme Department, of forging a letter from Albin Chalandon, former minister of Public Works, in order to obtain a building permit,

This newest political embarrassment for the Gaullists—and the apparent extent of it—added to a series of diverse scandals over recent months, has contributed to an ever more confused political scene here. Over the weekend it prompted one of Gen. de Gaulle's most trusted former lientenants, former Education and Interior Minister Christian Pouchet, to urge President Pom-pidon to call early elections to "purify the air."

Air Is Clearer

But if the air is not pure, it at least was clearer today fol-lowing Mr. Aranda's appearance at the Palais de Justice. He has made it quite clear now that his original threat to release tha documents if Franca continued selling arms to "fanatical Arab nations" was only a pretext. 'It was a poetical touch," he said.
"A flower on the dung heap." He said that he simply wished to draw attention to the extent of public corruption.

French justice responded to his appearance today-accompanied by René Florlot, France's most renowned trial lawyer—by indicting him for theft. The charge was reduced from the original one, which had been theft, con-cealment and complicity. Apparently it was reduced because Mr. Aranda explained that he purloined none of the documents in question but simply had them photocopled.

The documents now will be examined by an investigating judge to see if there are grounds for criminal action against the persons involved. It was ap-parent however, that Mr. Aranda also has separate photocopies for himself.

The Aranda affair has dominated the news here for the last four days. Not only is it unusual for French officials to leak documents. It is unknown for them to dn lt publicly. The mood in some Gaullist circles borders on hysteria as new names pop up each day.

Tainting the Majority

It prompted Mr. Fouchet to publicly wonder if the scandals that were tainting the majority did not threaten to besmirch historical Gaullism and its reputation. Mr. Pompidou, in his press conference Thursday, cer-tainly will be called on to offer defense of his majority. But it seems more than im-probable that he would heed Mr. Fouchet's call to advance the date of the spring elections.

Arriving at the Palais de Justice today, Mr. Aranda said. 'I have attained my objective. The scandals are now known." He denied that he had only political motives, admitted that he had always been a Gaullist and has "simply wanted to put an end to this aituation and thought the best way was to make public certain dossiers."

The most recent accusation, that against Mr. Sibeud, comes following Mr. Aranda's charges last week that Gaullists used their influence to win highway contracts, building permits to construct resorts in avalanche zones and generally traffic in public

He has specifically named René Tomashi, Michel Habib-Deloncle and Jacques Chirac, all prominent Gaullists, and now Mr. Sibeud, in connection with various dos-

Another charge was brought against Mr. Sibeud today when Edouard Leclore, the supermarket owner, alleged that 30,000 francs were "loaned" to Mr. Sibeud for his help. Mr. Sibeud today denied that the letter had been forged and said he repaid the loan

Rep. William Fitts Ryan, 50, Manhattan Liberal, War Foe

NEW YORK, Sept. 18 (WP).— Rep. William Fitts Ryan, 50, who had been expected to win his seventh election to Congress this fall, died here last night.

Mr. Ryan, who represented New York City's overwhelmingly Democratic West Side since 1960, defeated Bella Abzug, whose own area had been redistricted, by more than 2 to 1 in the June 20 Democratic primary.

He underwent a serious operation on his throat last year, and his health was a campaign issue in June.

Mr. Ryan was a consistent champion of civil rights and civil liberties in Congress.
One of his first actions was to vote to cut off funds for the House Un-American Activities Committee (only five out of 438 congressmen voted against the it was using public money "to humiliate scores of loyal American citizens."

He was also one of two congressmen in 1961 to speak out for United Nations recognition of Communist China, stating, "We cannot ignore the fact that China has more than 600 million people... We must talk to all the nations of the world." .

In 1968, Rep. Ryan was the first congressman to speak out against U.S. involvement in Viet-nam. In 1965, he held hearings on Vietnam and urged a negotiat-ed settlement of the war.

esponsible committee of the West German parliament today commended the conduct of German police and officials during the massacre of Israeli hostages at the Munich Olympics and said that further parliamentary investigation was unnecessary.

"In the circumstances, everything possible was done, properly handled and correctly decided," said Friedrich Schaefer, chairman of the Internal Affairs Committee of the Bundestag (lower house).

His announcement of the committee's opinion appeared to clash Chancellor Willy Brandt for a "searching" investigation into the circumstances of the Sept. 5 terrorist attack that resulted in 17 deaths.

It was also at considerable variance with the worldwide press demand for further clarification of what happened during the attack by Arab gunmen on the Olympic Village and the subsequent shootout between police and terrorists at a military air-

Criticism of Decision

So far, the thrust of press and public comment has tended to be harshly critical of the decisions made by German officials and their explanations of why the attempt to rescue the hostages

This was underscored most vividly during a four-hour press ment to parliament explaining the conference held by the responsible German officials in Munich on Sept. 7. The conference erupted into a shouting match of charges that the officials were being evasive and unresponsive in their answers and attempting to shift the blame for their actions.

Since then, government officials have remained largely silent while awaiting completion of documen-tation about the Munich tragedy, which is being prepared by rep-resentatives of the federal gov-ernment, the state of Bavaria and the city of Munich.

Federal Interior Ministry officials said today that they expect the finished documentation to be made public on Wednesday and hoped that it would clear un all the unanswered questions about what happened on Sept. 5.

They also noted that a draft version of the documentation had been seen by the Internal Affairs Committee and played a big role in the opinion announced by Mr. Schaefer today.

This charge of lese-majeste occurred in 1945 wheo the faithful still held that Stalin was Santa Claus. Solzhenitsyn spent the next eight years in conceotration camps, at first in a "general" camp with common criminals in the Arctic and later in Beria's "speciai" camp for life-long prisoners. The particular camp he describes in "One Day in the Life of Ivan Denisovich" was in the region of Karaganda in northern Kazakhstan. The scene of the freezing inferno is set with views of the wintery wastelands, the torture cells, the bleak barracks and the repulsive diet. The hostile eiements combined with the hrutality of the guards, the ironic sight of Marxism in practice the personal struggle for survival have heen heavily planted, but from all this no compelling tragedy arises. PARIS, Sept. 18 (IHT).—Loris Azzaro has made it. He had his greatest moment at the Paris premiere of "Cabaret" last week. In one of the longest singing sequences, Liza Minnelli wears an Azzaro dress-a sexy number of purple jersey, with bare shoulders and a curtain of chains over her belly button. She spotted it in Azzaro's Lido boutlque, walked in and bought it.

The night of the premiere, Marisa Berenson, who also has a part in the film, looked like a mermaid in Azzaro's silver sequins, with a slit up to here and sequined gloves up to there, After the show, Miss Berenson walked into Maxim's, a white for boa over her shoulder and David de Rothschild on her arm—a star every inch of the way. She would not discuss her romance but her dress, yes.

"I love Azzaro," she said, "He is unique. He makes you feel glamorous and very szry."

Even with so many dollars around today, the problem of gold valuation is a real one for Europeans. This arises from the historic moves of the Common-Market to establish over the next decade a single currency area. which, in turn, involves the working out of a formula for u'e ln settling intra-European accounts Such a formula is difficult to work out without some way of valumg gold.

Under Common Market procedures to narrow the margins of finetuation among currencies nf the bloc to half the 4 1/2 percent allowed by the IMF, member getting monetary aid from another is obliged to settle part of the debt in gold at $28 an ounce. The proportion of gold in the repayment depends on the percentage of gold in the debtor's total reserves.

For instance, Italy has $3billion of gold reserves; or about 40 percent of her total reserves. So for every dollar that Italy would have had to borrow from its partners, it would have had repay 40 cents in gold valued at the official $38-an-ounce price. In the turmoil during the floatof the British pound last July, Italy prevailed upon Common Market partners to make an exception and allow it to settle debts resulting from Itra support actions only in dollars until Sept. 30.

At a Common Market finance ministers' meeting in Rome last week. Italy won a three-month extension. What will happen afterward is still an open question

The French had sought to deal with the problem of mtra-European valuation of gold by establishing a special gold price for the Common Market somewhere between the $38 official price and the $65 free-market price.

This idea received no support from France's partners and France dropped it. The United States remains stanchly opposed to an increase in the official gold price.

Gold Price Dips in Europe In Wave of 'Panic' Selling

Europe's gold market today encountered the year's biggest sell-ing wave, but bullion dealers were unable to give any reason to account for it other than "panicky" unloading by speculators.

The London afternoon fixing was $61.25 an ounce, down $3.25 from the morning and $4.25 from Friday afternoon, Later, the price was quoted in an unusually wide range of $62 bid, $63 offered. Dealers in London and Zurich said jewelry producers and other trade customers were unwilling to buy at current prices so that speculators had no one to sell but themselves.

Although it could not be en-tirely excluded, dealers doubted that either the Soviet Union

The decline in prices started last week after the Moscow Narodny bank in London published an analysis which said that ultimately a gold price of $50 an ounce was more realistic than a price of $80. Consolidated Goldfields Ltd. had previously forecast that gold would rise over the decade to $80.

U.S. Experts Offer Reform Project

By Edwin L. Dale Jr. WASHINGTON, Sept. 18 (NYT).—A group of leading Americans offered today a fairly detailed plan for world monetary reform, including an "interim arrangement" to keep the system stable during the international negotiations on reform

In the degree of its detail, the plan goes well beyond anything yet proposed by the U.S. government. But the government is likely to be sympathetic to many. if not most, of the proposals.

Today's report was issued by the monetary committee of the Atlantic Council of the United States, headed by Henry H. Fowler, former secretary of the Treasury. The group included many high former government officials, including William Mc-Chesney Martin jr., former chairman of the Federal Reserve Board, and several prominent private experts, including Edward M. Bernstein, a consulting econo-

Rates a Kersione

One keystone of the plan is a set of internationally agreed rules to bring about in the future regular, small changes in currency exchange rates, including the exchange rate of the dollar. There could be penaltles on countries found to be in a position requiring an exchange rate change, up or down, but refusing to make it.

Another keystone is an ultimate return to convertibility of the dollar into monetary reserve assets, though not the old simple convertibility into gold, While the dollar would continue to be used as the main "intervention" currency to maintain other currencies' exchange rates in daily trading, it would no longer pile up, unwanted, in other nations' reserves.

The proposed interim arrangement-which could last several years while reform is being negotiated-appears to parallel pro-posals made earlier by Mr. Bernstein. It would have three com-

Other countries should support the pattern of exchange rates established last year in the Smithsonian agreement by purchase of dollars as necessary, as long as these exchange rates remain "appropriate." This is now being done. • The United States should itself intervene in the foreign exchange markets in a small way from time to time, as is also now being done, as "an indication that it regards the maintenance of the commitment in which it shares."

• The United States would also offer a guarantee to other countries acquiring dollars that they would suffer no loss in the event of another devaluation of the dollar.

Danger of Blocs

"If nothing is done," the report said, "there is grave danger that the international monetar; system will degenerate into groups of before an agreement is reached on international monetary reform . . . Interim arrangements are essential to bridge the gap of uncertainty between the mone tary system of the past and the reformed monetary system of the future."

The proposed reform covered numerous topics from the role of gold to a set of rules for controlling and decontrolling morements of capital. While gold would remain as a monetary reserve, the committee said the new special drawing rights, or "paper gold, '"should increasingly become the basic reserve aget for the entire system and from the outset the numeraire in which the parities of all currencies and gold woold be dcclared.

The report opposed the Idea now current that the huge "overhang" of unwanted dollars in central banks be converted into a special issue of SDRs. Instead, it proposed a "once only" option to convert these dollars into "a new and special reserve asset denominated as an International Monetary Fund currency deposit." This, said the report, would avoid the danger of flooding the world with too many SDRs.

Cracial Adjustment In the section propesing a new and somewhat more automatic system for small changes In exchange rates, the report emphasized the crucial importance of achieving prompt balance of payments "adjustement" in the future. It chose exchange rate changes as the best single means of achieving adjustment

"An improvement in the adfusiment process is essential to many other improvements in the internateional monetary system, including in particular some normalization of the role of the U.S. dollar in international finance and the restoration of convertibility of the dollar into reserve assets."

The report proposed that in the future system, when payments, deficits and surpluses nation with the "mix" of reserve States, at times of deficit, would pay out a proportionalely large amount of gold because in its reserves.

FINANCIAL NEWS AND NOTES

Japanese Firms' Profit Seeu Up

Yamaichi Securities Co. bas revised upward Its profit forecast for Japanese companies closing their books in September. The brokerage firm believes that the 377 firms listed on the first section of the Tokyo Stock Exchange reporting semiannual results for the half-year ending September, not including banks, will show an average increase in net income of 7.1 percent from the preceding term ended March 1972. Eurlier. Yamaichi forecast a 4.2 percent profit-growth rate. For the same companies, Yamaichi left its sales growth forecast unchanged at 4.6 percent. The securities company estimated that manufacturing companies will report average September profit 10.2 percent higher than their average figure for last March, compared with an earlier estimate of a 5.7 percent gain. Average net income of the non-manufacturing sector is expected to show a 3.3 percent gain from March, compared with a 25 percent advance forecast earlier. It is standard practice in Japan to compare the financial results of major companies with the preceding six-month term rather than with the yearearlier period.

IBM Seeks Tokyo Listing

International Business Machines Corp. intends to apply for the listing of its shares on the Tokyo Stock Exchange when such applications are accepted. The firm's intention has been conveyed to the Japanese Finance Ministry and the Tokyo Stock Exchange.

When you're in the market for Euro-currency financing, consider Morgan Guaranty

In a little more than a decade, the complex Eurocurrency market has grown to more than $75 billion. And because Morgan Guaranty has been a force in this market from the beginning, we have developed an international team of senior Eurocurrency experts. These specialists can provide help on an extraordinary range of financial matters, from short-term working capital loans and mediumterm revolving credits to finding sources of longerterm funds.

Over the past several years Morgan's international bankers have arranged over $6 billion in short- and medium-term loans for multinational and foreign customers. And apart from being a large lender in our own right, we are also a leader in the syndication of multibank loans to assist the very largest borrowers. One recent example was Morgan's important role in helping to form the group providing $900 million to a British oil company—the largest private bank financing ever. In forming such groups, our network of overseas banking offices, our partnerships with investment banks, and our close relationships with correspondent banks around the world, give us great speed and flexibility.

This commitment to international banking and finance is both long-standing and thorough. In fact, the bank was established on the Continent nearly a hundred years before there was a Common Market. Today our international offices serving international companies cover every key financial center.

Whatever your international banking needs, consider Morgan Guaranty. You'll be in good company. We're already helping 96 of the world's 100 largest corporations solve their financial problems.

Morgan Guaranty Trust Company, 23 Wall Street, New York, N.Y. 10015 • Overseas Banking Offices: London, Paris, Brussels, Antwerp, Frankfurt, Düsseldorf, Munich, Zurich, Milan and Rome (Banca Morgan Vonwiller), Tokyo, Nassau • Overseas Representative Offices: Madrid, Beirut, Sydney, Hong Kong, São Paulo, Caracas • Associated Financial Institutions in 31 countries. Member, Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation.

It is seldom easy to choose the right moment to play in a minorsuit game. The declarer must have a good reason to avoid three no-trump, such as the absence of s stopper in the opponents' suit. Usually the portnership needs nine cards or more in the trump suit, but an eight-card fit can work out well. It did on the diagramed deal from the 1972 Central American championship final in which Jamaica defeated

Panama. North and South were using the Blue Team Club, in which South's opening bld "simply" showed a hand with 17 or more points, West overcalled with one spade, and North doubled negatively to show modest strength, and in-cidentally deny possession of an ace and a king or three kings.

South bid hearts at the twolevel and clubs at the three-level, and North raised agressively to five clubs, showing great strength in this partner's skill in dummy-p.sy. The confidence proved justified for the Jamaican South pay. player, Dr. Ralph St. Luce, rose to the occasion in the play.

East had a difficult decision at trick one after his partner led the spade king. The question was: To ruff or not to ruff. He chose to ruff and return a trump, attempting to cut down the declarer's cross-ruff prospects. South captured West's jack with dummy's king, led to the heart ace and saw with surprise that he had collected the king from West. He led a low heart and ruffed, and played a spade from dunumy, giving East another chance to ruff. This time he declined, and the spade ace won, Now the declarer was in a position to establish and use his hearts. He ruffed another low heart, ruffed a diamond, and ruffed another heart with dummy's last trump. Another diamond ruff provided the entry to the closed hand, the club ace collected the last two trumps from the defenders, and there were two heart winners to bring South's trick total to 11. He lost a spade to West at the

the sexual wilderness of our naked society). It's awful what's been going on lately. Huge corporations packing up their personnel and sending them off to nasty places like Houston, Rubber companies in Akron, Ohio, switching to three and four-shift workdays, so that the next-door neighbors can't bowl with each other any more. Acrospace towns springing up like ABM siles and messing up the life-style of the old village green. Shopping malls in Paramus: youngsters running off to dear old Multi-U; old folks toddling off to cities in the sun. Snowbirds centrifugating: ethnics churning in people-implod-ing cities; urbs and suburbs

Trevino Takes St. Louis Golf by 1 Stroke

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 18 (AP) -Lee Trevino passed front-running Deane Beman with birdles on the first two holes and held on for a one-stroke victory yester-day in the $150,000 Greater St. Louis golf classic. Trevino had a final round of 70, matching par on the 8,550yard Northwood Hills Country Club course, and scored his fourth triumph of the current campaign with a 72-hole total

It matched the best 72-hole total on the tour this season. Trevino and Lee Elder set the standard two weeks ago in the standard two weeks ago in the Hertford Open, won by Trevino in a piayoff.

The $30,000 first-pace check-boosted the British Open champion's earnings for the year to $199,168 and waulted him past Gene Liftler into sixth place on Gene Littler into sixth place on the all-time money-winning list at 5824,837. He has been on the tour for only five full seasons.

After the two opening birdies. Trevino took a three-stroke advantage as Beman bogeyed the fourth and sixth holes. He had a four-stroke advantage at the turn, but came home with a 3-over-per 38. "I just putted horrible on the back side," he said... Bob Goalby, alone in second place after the third round, slipped to a 73 for a 274 total and was tied for fourth with nonwinning tour regular Don Bies,

663 Yards Against Oregon State

McKay Boasts His 'Quickest' Team at USC

By Gnrdon S. White Jr.

NEW YORK, Sept. 18 (NYT). -John McKay, who has coached such college football running backs as O.J. Simpson and Mike Garrett in 13 years at Southern California, said his current Trojans were "the quickest team I've ever had," after they trounced Oregon State, 51-6, at Los Angeles Saturday night.

Rod McNeill, the junior tail-back who missed last season with a broken hip, ran for the Trojans' first three touchdowns in the first half. His teammates continued to pile it on and finished with 663 yards in total offense-McNeill had 111 yards in 18 car-

Oregoo State did all it could to assist the Trojans in the Pacific-8 Conference game. For the second week in a row, the Beavers lost five fumbles,

Los Angeles fans already are dreaming of a showdown between Southern California and the University of California, Los Angeles Nov. 18. UCLA, also powerful with runners such as Jim McAlister and Kermit Johnsoo and with Mark Harmon at quarterback, was not as impressive as USC in beating Pittsburgh, 36-28. But tt was UCLA that up:et Nebraska nine days ago.

Longest Streak

Now that Toledo and Nebraska have been besten this year lal-though both won Saturday), Tennessee holds the longest current winning sireak among major teams-a modest nine. The Vols kept going strong Saturday night with a 28-21 victory over Penn State before 71,647 fans, the largest crowd to watch a sports event in Tennessee.

The Scoreboard

GOLF—At Ware, Texas, Sandra Haynle shot a 4-under-par 69 final round and finished at 306 to win the $20,000 Queliny First Classic. Miss Haynle had rodods of 69-69-68 and was 10 under par for the 54-hole tourney. After two rounds, she was one shot behind Marlene Hopge, who clumped to a 73 and 100t second place at 210. Kathy Whitworth shot 71 and was third with a 211 total. Miss Haynle won $3,000, which boosted her 1912 carntogs to 630,441.

State lost to Tennessee at the end of the 1971 regular season, the Nittany Lions hurt themselves by turning the ball over to Tennessee three times in the first half. The Vols beat the Penn State defense, supposedly a team strength, for a touchdown after each turnover.

Dave Buckey, a freshman quarterback, led North Carolina State to a 43-20 victory over Syracuse in another night game in the South. His was the most notable of the surprising performances by freshmen, who were made eligible for varsity status at major colleges this year for the first time since 1951.

Freshman's Field Goal

Don Taylor, another freshman, kicked a field goal in the final quarter to give Bowling Green a 17-14 triumph over Purdue.

There were two spectacular crashes. Indianapolis 500 winner Mark Donohue of Media, Fa., in a Porsche, and Peter Gregg, also in a Porsche, escaped serious injuries. The right rear tire of Donohue's car blew out as he sped out of a turn at 120 miles an hour. The car went over an embankment and was badly damaged, but Donohue, who had just returned to racing after an accident 10 weeks ago in Gregg's car slammed into a guard rail in practice and was destroyed, but Gregg wasn't injured.

Donohue Leads

Doochue, who led until his mishap on the 43d lap, started in the pole position. Follmer, driving a Porsche, held the lead from the 44th lap until the final lap. Cevert, in a Mo-Laren, passed him when Follmer's car ran out of fuel and stalled on the last turn.

Cevert. 28, won $13,000 end contingency money for his first Cam-Am victory. Milt Minter of the United States was second in a Porsche seconds behind Cevert and Just edged Jackle Oliver of Britain in a VOP Shadow. With his fourth-place finish, Follmer took a 23-point lead over Minter in the series drivers' standings. The Team McLaren entries of Denis Hulme of New Zealand and New York's Peter Revson went out early in the race.

Mr. Perahia, a 25-year-old New Yorker, beat 60 professional planists for the $750 first prize and became the compelition's first winner from the United States.

"Bread?"

"Money. It is obvious that we can no longer depend on the freedom-loving countries of this world to buy the things that the United States manufactures so it can be the strongest capitalist country in the world. Therefore, our only choice is to find customers among the enslaved peoples of the globe who have been deprived by their system of the good things in life.

"That otakes sense," I admitted. "Who do you think saved the Beeing Aircraft Co. this year!" "I know it wasn't the Mexicaus," I said.

Normally their two oldest daughters work with them but it is a Sunday and the crops are poor so only one 14-person crew is needed. The Ortizes live in a unit provided free by Sieepy Hollow that by migrant standards is almost luxurious. "It's so much better than the place we stayed before," hirs. Ortiz said. "We didn't have any room and it was not clean." The unit is barren, the only decorations being cardboard pictures of Jesus Christ, the Last Supper and B card congratulating Celia on her graduation from high school The clothes hang from nails in the wall, The beds double as solas.

Mrs. Ortiz's daughters sweep the floor and dress the younger children as their mother prepares for work. At 7 Bm., she and Victor are on the ancient bus that takes them and the other workers to the packing house that is processing radishes. The couple, who met in a five-and-dime store, never part. "We always work together, it doesn't matter what crop," Lupe said. This year they have labored side by side weeding and cutting lettuce and celery. Today Lupe will be a sorter, checking radishes for size and blemishes, and Victor will be assembling boxes. Mrs. Ortiz prefers the packing house to the fields. "At least you don't get so dirty, but it's hard work anyway." By day's end the Ortizes have made less than $30 between them for seven hours' work. It has been a slow season for them and a bad one for Orange County. Hurricane Acres devastated the area in July, ruining the early crops. There was no work for three weeks and the family was forced to apply for welfare. "We only went when we didn't have anything at all, not even money for groceries," Mrs. Ortiz said. Some summers she and her husband each made more than $100 a week, but this year they are averaging unly about $65 each. Even with the earnings of their two nidest girls, the Ortizes' money does not go far in helping to meet bills. They earmark $100 a month for their house mortgage, $94 for payments on the truck that took them north, and $34 on a lean.

Dinner tonight will be tortillas as usual, the most filling meal Mrs. Ortiz can devise on her tight food budget. She hurries the family through dinner, anxious for them be freshly dressed for the evening cburch service. The 8 p.m. mass, scheduled late so that all the camp workers who want can attend, is said by a Spanishspeaking priest. To miss it is unthinkable. Afterwards the Ortizes may watch tele-vision, their major form of relaxation.

But by 10 n'clock it is time for bed. "I want my children to get an educa-tion and get out of this," Mrs. Ortiz de-clared. "They go to school almost all year around." (Unlike many other migrant families, the Ortizes delay coming north until school in Texas gets out in June.)

Yet education alone does not seem to the answer. Celia, the high-school graduate, will become s. bride soon, and probably mother too, if her friends' experiences are a guide. She and her fiance. who also works for Sleepy Hollow, both dislike farm work but are vague about ways to find other employment. . . .

"I would like to lead a permanent life but they don't have too many jobs for high-school graduates," she said.

Celia is resigned to the migrant life. "Nobody likes field work but I'm used to it and it's not bad if you are used to it. I'm just glad when the day is through."

SLEEPING (Presumably): World chess champion Bobby Fischer who, on his return to New York Sunday right, said: "It's great to be back in America" and, of his plans, "I'm going to sleep." He said he didn't know if he would participate in the chess Olympiad in Skoplie, Yugoslavia, that opened yesterday. Fischer's second, the Rev. William Lombardy said the first week of the Olympiad consists of qualifying matches and that Fischer could join later if he decided to compete, . . . . . . . . . . . . . . . .

However, Edmund Edmendson executive director of the U.S. Chess Federation, said last night in New York that Fischer will not compete at Skopije-"He can't because the entry list is already closed." In Washington, presidential press secretary Ron Zeigler was asked about a possible welcome visit at the White House, He replied: "I don't know of any plans for the President to see the chess champ." ...

Recently Richard C. Gerstenberg, $740,000-a-year board chairman of General Motors, drove into a Bloomfield Hills, Michigan, service station and said "Fill 'er up." Then he found he had no wallet and no money. "General Motors, eh?" said the attendant.
"Well, I'll tell you what we'll do. You leave your wristwatch with me, and then you drive home and get your wallet, and when you come back here and pay me for the gasoline, I'll give you your watch back, Okay, Mr.-Gerstenberg?" Apparently, for that's what Mr. G. did. . . . .
